

Message by Dean, Public Relations

In these present days of high competition, one has to have a very good communication skills in order to excel and convince people. When soft skills are made part of the education system along with core courses, the trained students will be equipped to take up any kind of assignments. BIET strongly believes this and ample of training in soft skills will be made available to all the students through its number of well-structured soft skill programs. I welcome all the aspirants of engineering education to this temple of learning which molds you to have an outcome and need based education imbued with necessary soft skill training.